SCOTLAND

Labour won 50 of 72 Scottish seats in 1987 but is under pressure from the Scottish National Party's campaign for independence

THE BATTLE FOR POWER

Labour need a net gain of 94 seats to win 326 seats giving them an overall majority of one. The Conservatives need to restrict their losses to fewer than 44 seats in order to win a fourth victory at the polls. The Liberal Democrats hope to improve on their 22 seats in the last parliament.

If no party wins 326 seats there will be a hung parliament and the balance of power will be held by the Liberal Democrats, Scottish and
