

The forgotten issue

New UN forecasts predict the world's population will double by the middle of next century but the issue will have little prominence at the Earth Summit owing to religious objections

(Billions)

