

Vance-Owen peace plan for Bosnia

Renewed peace talks in Athens this weekend are seen as a last ditch effort to avert military action by Western nations to halt the war in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

The latest Vance-Owen plan calls for 10 semi-autonomous provinces based on ethnic grounds and a U.N. guarded corridor linking Serb dominated provinces in northern Bosnia and Croatia with Serbia

