

Will North Korea tow the nuclear line?

North Korea's pledge to withdraw from the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty will take effect on June 12 unless last minute talks with the U.S. can bring about a change of heart. The threat to pull out followed P'yongyang's refusal to allow inspection by the International Atomic Energy Agency of three sites suspected of developing nuclear weapons

