

Family finances

One-parent households are at a disadvantage when it comes to money – having an average weekly disposable income up to 62% lower than a couple who both work. Unsurprisingly, families have higher bills, for example, average weekly outlay on leisure is 37% more than in households without children

Average income levels (£) – 1991

Average weekly expenditure on leisure (£) – 1991

