

The rise in 'single parent' households

Districts with single parent households above national average

National average:
3.8% of households in Great Britain consist of only one person aged 16 or over with at least one child under 16.

Highest concentrations of single parent households are found in metropolitan areas, with Knowsley, on Merseyside, nearly 2.5 times the national average

