

GLOUCESTER MURDERS Seventh body found in mass murder case

As Cromwell Street continues to give up its grisly secrets, police plan to search Frederick West's former homes, using ground-seeking radar that has so far located seven bodies. West's first wife and another daughter are among a number of local women who have disappeared since the 60s

25 Cromwell Street

Children's bedroom

Main bedroom

Living room

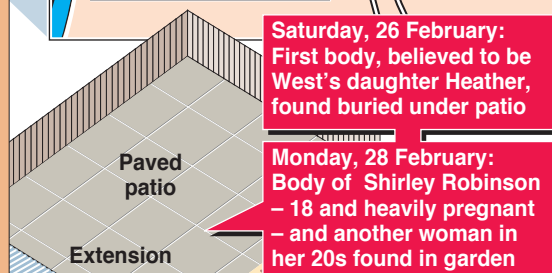

Trap door in living room leads to bedrooms in cellars

Front door

Cellars

Cromwell Street

Concrete floor up to 6ft thick

Saturday, 26 February:
 First body, believed to be West's daughter Heather, found buried under patio

Monday, 28 February:
 Body of Shirley Robinson – 18 and heavily pregnant – and another woman in her 20s found in garden

Secrets in the cellars
 Saturday, 5 March:
 Two bodies found under concrete cellar floor
 Sunday, 6 March: One more body found
 Monday 7 March: Fourth body brings total to seven

Surface penetrating radar sends short pulses of electro-magnetic energy into the ground to detect shapes and soil disturbance

