

Silver spoon

If people think someone has always been rich they might say he was born with a silver spoon in his mouth. The saying goes back to the 16th century when it was customary for a baby's wealthy godparents to give a set of silver spoons as a christening present. Silver remains a traditional christening gift today