

W C FIELDS once said, 'never act with children or animals.' In many instances he was right. Put a cherubic child's face up on the screen, threaten it with a little danger and prepare for the audience to ignore all the other players.

Of course, not all child stars were of the goody-goody variety. In fact what made some more interesting than others was the mayhem they created. How many can you identify in our Kids quiz below

1 In 1982 she encountered a friendly creature from a far away place in a Stephen Spielberg film. Who is she?

2(a) No points for guessing Macaulay Culkin in Home Alone, but how did he come to be alone? (b) Can you name the hapless burglar from the film who also appeared in many Mob movies?

3 This child star of all child stars went on to become a respected politician and diplomat. Who is she?

4(a) Name this highly respected actress and director (b) This film was a musical spoof of the 1920s gangster era. What was the film called?

5 The tragic death of this young star brought a very promising career to an abrupt end. Who is he?

6(a) One of the screen's greatest legends began her film career in the 40s. Who is she and what was the film called? (b) Who did she eventually marry... twice?

7 'I've got an idea, let's do the show right here!' or words to that effect were generally proclaimed by this pair in a series of family musicals in the 40s. Can you name them?

8(a) Edward Furlong, seen here as John Connor in Terminator 2 was hunted by a T-1000 robot. Who played the friendly T-800 model? (b) What was the famous catchphrase taught to the T-800 by Connor?

Answers on page ##