

...Keep watching the skies!
Alien invaders may be circling our planet even as we speak...

Transmissions ceased at this point. No further data bursts have been received from the remote outpost, we are doing everything to restore contact as soon as humanly possible... Meanwhile, try your hand at identifying the alien invaders in our montage

1. Steven Spielberg introduced us to these visitors in 1977. 'We are not alone' proclaimed the advertising. What was the film?

2. Better looking than your average space invader, but with evil intentions for planet Earth nevertheless. What planet was he from, in which movie?

3. These residents of an old people's home discovered the secret of eternal youth, provided by some friendly visitors, while swimming in their pool. What is this film?

4. In 1953 the Martians drew up their plans against us, but caught their death of cold! What was the film?

5. A landmark of 50s sci-fi set above the run-of-the-mill paranoia movies of the time. Name the film

6. This unfortunate alien, in search of water for his own drought-stricken planet, becomes trapped on Earth. What is his name and what is the film?

7. 'Klaatu barada nikto' says Klaatu to the robot Gort as it prepares to destroy the Earth. In which 50s sci-fi masterpiece does this occur?

8. He'll have someone's eye out with that thing. What reissued film is this unsavoury character from?

9. Left behind on Earth and befriended by a small boy. What was this creature's 'catchphrase'