

Baby-sitting via satellite

Losing a child is every parent's worst nightmare. Now a personal locator, developed in the U.S. and equipped with miniature Global Positioning System (GPS) technology, uses satellite tracking and wireless communications to enable parents to find their child anywhere in the country within 60 seconds

Atomic clock:
Sets time automatically whatever the time zone

Panic button:
Wearer presses two outer buttons for three seconds to alert police

Lock button:
Fixes location

GPS locator:
Four GPS satellites pinpoint position. "Always-on" wireless link to internet

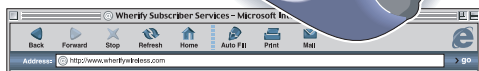

GPS Personal Locator

Pager: Receives and stores 10 pages

Wrist band:
Cut-resistant to prevent unwanted removal. Can be locked and unlocked using key fob or remotely over internet

Key fob

Cost:
$399.99

Locate For: Amy / XJ273400

- ☒ Amy
- ☐ Christine
- ☐ Brian

Perform Locate

Perform Breadcrumb

View Location History

Send Page

Progress

Location: Parent logs into web page using secret code and password. Aerial image or map showing child's location appears within a minute

