

Financial cost of 9/11

The White House has issued a summary of more than $100 billion the U.S. government has spent or committed to spend in response to the September 11 attacks

War on terrorism	$30bn
-------------------------	---------------

Homeland security	$35bn
-------------------	---------------

New York recovery	$21bn
--------------------------	---------------

Victims compensation	$5bn
----------------------	--------------

Airline support	$8bn
------------------------	--------------

Other recovery	$3bn
----------------	--------------

Homeland Security includes:

Border and port security	$9.1bn
--------------------------	----------------

Aviation security	$6.4bn
-------------------	----------------

Defence	$6.3bn
---------	----------------

Bioterrorism	$5.1bn
--------------	----------------

FBI	$1.4bn
-----	----------------

First responders	$1.2bn
------------------	----------------

Nuclear security	$0.9bn
------------------	----------------

Postal service	$0.8bn
----------------	----------------

New York recovery includes:

FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency)	$8.8bn
--	----------------

Liberty Zone finance	$5.0bn
----------------------	----------------

Community grants	$3.7bn
------------------	----------------

Department of Transportation	$2.3bn
------------------------------	----------------

Other federal agencies	$1.0bn
------------------------	----------------

Source: U.S. Office of Management and Budget

Picture: Popperfoto

© GRAPHIC NEWS