

London brought to a standstill again

A series of blasts on London's transport system brought the city to a halt for the second time in two weeks. Three small blasts on the tube and one explosion on a bus occurred two weeks to the day after major terrorist attacks in the city killed 56 people and injured over 700

LONDON

Warren Street: One person injured – thought to be holding rucksack containing detonator

Bethnal Green: Windows blown out on No. 26 bus in Hackney Road after blast on top deck

Edgware Rd

Kings Cross

Tavistock Square

Liverpool St

University College Hospital: Armed police deployed, area cordoned off

Whitehall: Two men arrested

Shepherds Bush: Bomb attempt at Hammersmith and City Line station

Oval: Loud bang heard followed by smoke, man seen running away from scene