

City faces water crisis

Residents are fleeing the city of Harbin in China's northeastern Heilongjiang province as water supplies were cut off following fears they had been contaminated with benzene

