

U.S. may boost troops in Iraq

Faced with rising sectarian violence, the persistence of the insurgency and the slow pace of political progress in Iraq, the U.S. military is likely to maintain – or possibly even increase – the current force levels of more than 140,000 troops until at least mid-2007

