

China renews claim to disputed territory

China's ambassador to India has reiterated his country's claim to a wide swathe of northeastern India, prompting a sharp rebuke from Indian officials, barely a week before the Chinese president's visit. The border dispute is a legacy of the 1962 war between the two Asian giants

