

Turkmen to elect new president

Turkmenistan's presidential election is seen as a first, if fragile, chance for reform after two decades of rule by the late totalitarian leader Saparmurat Niyazov. Acting president Kurbanguly Berdimukhamedov is widely expected to win the vote

— Oil-gas pipeline  Refinery
 Gas field  Oil field

Berdimukhamedov pledges certain reforms including wider access to internet, better education and healthcare

