

Italy volcano erupts

A state of emergency has been declared on the Italian island of Stromboli after its volcano started to erupt violently, sending a flow of lava into the sea

Population of 750 urged to stay away from coast. 2002 eruption caused collapse that led to small tsunami