

Bolivian deadline for Telecom Italia

Italy has asked the European Union to intervene to protect the investment of Telecom Italia SpA – Italy's biggest phone company – in its Entel Bolivia unit after the Latin American country moved to nationalize telecommunication services

► Jan 22, 2006: Leftist President Evo Morales sworn in, pledging to empower Bolivia's poor, indigenous majority

► Mar: Bolivia says it will not renew three-year deal with International Monetary Fund after decades of IMF-imposed austerity programmes

► May 1: Morales orders military to occupy oil and gas fields and refineries. Ten foreign oil companies agree to accept higher tax rates, adding $750 million a year to state coffers

► Jun: Brazil agrees to pay 10% more for Bolivian natural gas, and Argentina almost 50% more

► Apr 2007: New decree allows Morales to force two foreign-owned pension funds to cede control of 47% interest in telecommunications company Entel to state

► May 1: Deadline for Telecom Italia to sell its controlling 50% stake in Entel to state

Picture: Associated Press

© GRAPHIC NEWS