

River dolphin extinct

The Yangtze River dolphin is most likely extinct, scientists say. If so, it would be the first whale or dolphin wiped out due to human activity

Yangtze freshwater dolphin:
*Last seen in wild in 2002.
Six-week survey in 2006
failed to find any specimens*

Fishing, pollution and heavy boat traffic likely causes of decline