

Countdown to Japanese Grand Prix

Ferrari are chasing the 200th win of their F1 career at the Japanese Grand Prix. If they can place two drivers on the podium the Maranello squad will become the first team in history to record 600 podium-place finishes

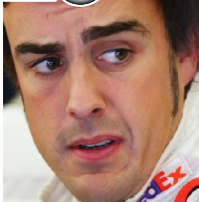

All-time wins

Podium-place finishes

Ferrari	199	598
----------------	------------	------------

McLaren	155	415
---------	-----	-----

Williams	113	294
----------	-----	-----

Ahead of Sunday's race: Pole positions Wins Points Fastest lap (km/h)

Lewis Hamilton	McLaren	4	3	97	Great Britain	229.514
-----------------------	----------------	---	---	-----------	----------------------	----------------

Fernando Alonso	McLaren	2	4	95	Italy	250.653
-----------------	----------------	---	---	-----------	--------------	----------------

Kimi Raikkonen	Ferrari	3	4	84	Australia	223.978
----------------	----------------	---	---	-----------	------------------	----------------

Felipe Massa	Ferrari	5	3	77	Turkey	220.136
--------------	----------------	---	---	-----------	---------------	----------------

■ 1.4km-long straight at new Fuji Speedway circuit – longest in F1 – could boost Hamilton's title hopes

■ Alonso won in Japan last year and was third in 2005. His best grid position is only a fifth in 2003 and 2006

■ Since 2002, Raikkonen has always finished in the points at Japan's Suzuka circuit, with a win in 2005

■ In his fourth appearance in Japan, Massa set pole position and finished second to Renault's Alonso last year