

Oil export threat

The growth in the economies of oil exporting nations is causing domestic oil demand to surge, forcing them to begin importing oil – Indonesia has already done so, Mexico and Iran could soon follow – and threatening global supplies

Increase in domestic oil consumption 2005-06 (%)

Saudi Arabia

