

Taliban sets up courts

Taliban militants in Pakistan's north-western tribal areas have set up four permanent Qazi (Islamic) courts in Peshawar and in Bajaur, Mohmand and Orakzai districts. The Taliban claims Qazi courts offer "quick and easy" justice compared to government courts in which litigation can take decades

