

Central banks fight financial storms

Global central banks are pumping up to $180 billion into markets in a co-ordinated move to increase funds available to commercial banks. The funds will boost their short-term and overnight lending requirements

Total made available to date by U.S. Federal Reserve: $247bn

*Figures do not total $180bn due to previous funding lines