

Australia on Code Red alert

A “catastrophic” fire warning has been issued for the first time in much of South Australia, where temperatures are forecast to top 40 degrees Celsius following an earlier record-breaking heatwave

Code Red warning: Urges residents to flee their homes. It was created in wake of February wildfires which killed 173 people in Victoria