

F1 title race shifts to Singapore

The race for the Formula One drivers' title is on a knife-edge going into Singapore's Grand Prix. With five drivers holding title ambitions, Marina Bay's low-speed, high-downforce street circuit could be a defining race

187
points

Mark Webber:

Anticipates Red Bull's car will be fastest and best suited to track. Last year Webber crashed out with brake failure after 45 laps

182
points

Lewis Hamilton:

Drove his McLaren-Mercedes to victory last year. Hopes two months of engineering work will improve performance on high-downforce circuit

166
points

Fernando Alonso:

Ferrari driver enters Sunday's race with momentum, having delighted Italian fans with his victory at Monza two weeks ago

165
points

Jenson Button:

McLaren driver hasn't won in 10 races but could still retain his world champion status thanks to his consistent points gathering

Sebastian Vettel:

Trails Red Bull team-mate Webber by 24 points. But with five races to go, and 25 points for a win, Vettel remains confident

163
points