

Google's self-driving robot car

Google researchers have road-tested a fleet of seven autonomous cars on the roads of California, covering 140,000 miles between them. The aim is to improve motoring efficiency – reducing emissions and doubling road capacity – and halve the world's 1.2 million road traffic deaths each year

Artificial intelligence: Driver can select either cautious or aggressive driving style from on-board computer