

Japan recalls Russian envoy over islands row

Japan has temporarily recalled its ambassador from Moscow but left the door open for a possible summit, despite growing anger in Tokyo over President Dmitry Medvedev's visit to one of the disputed Kuril Islands off Japan's northern coast

