

Then there were four...

As the F1 Championship reaches its conclusion, four drivers could still win the title in the final race – depending on how their rivals fare

