

Libyan tribes hold key to power

Although rural nomads and semi-nomads now make up less than 10% of Libya's population, around 20 main tribes still remain centres of power, with tribal loyalties – and rivalries – playing a crucial role in deciding the future of the Gaddafi regime

