

Quakes hit southern Spain

At least eight people were reported dead and dozens injured after two earthquakes of magnitude 4.4 and 5.2 shook southeastern Spain, toppling historic buildings in the medieval town of Lorca

