

Resolving the issue of “indefensible” borders

The principle of “mutually-agreed land swaps” in any peace deal between Israel and Palestine would involve exchanging territory of equal value and size on either side of the green line – for example to take in large population centres

