

China's nuclear reactors pass inspections

Chinese nuclear regulators have given the country's reactors a clean bill of health following inspections prompted by Japan's Fukushima disaster.

China currently has 14 nuclear reactors, with 28 under construction, and plans to have more than 100 operational by 2020

- Sites with reactors currently operating
- Reactors under construction or planned
- Tectonic plate boundaries — Fault lines

