

Riots spread across UK

Sporadic violence spread to several British cities overnight, although London – with 10,000 police officers deployed – remained calm after three previous nights of rioting

