

Earthquake hits U.S.

A 5.8-magnitude earthquake shook the east coast of the United States Tuesday. Centred on Virginia state, it was felt in Washington, where the Pentagon and U.S. Capitol were evacuated. Two nuclear plants were taken off line and flights disrupted

