

Canadian natives protest tar sands

Aboriginal groups in British Columbia have united to oppose all exports of crude oil from the Alberta tar sands through their territories.

The move is a further blow to the Canadian energy sector after the U.S. decision to delay approving a pipeline carrying oil sands crude to the Gulf Coast

