

Egypt's new parliament to hold first session

Egypt's parliament sits for the first time since Hosni Mubarak was deposed. Following a historic election, the People's Assembly will now select a speaker and form a committee to write Egypt's new constitution

▶ Muslim Brotherhood's Freedom and Justice Party Secretary General Mohamed Saad El-Katatny is expected to be elected speaker of Egypt's first freely elected parliament

*Field Marshal Hussein Tantawi, head of Supreme Council of the Armed Forces (SCAF), has appointed 10 MPs including five Christians and the only two women in parliament
