

Who really benefits from the Greek bailout?

Of the €382 billion committed to save Greece – through bailouts and debt write-downs since May 2010 – less than half will actually go to Greece itself. Most will go to banks and other bondholders

€282 billion

Two bailouts from eurozone and IMF totalling €240bn plus €42bn from EU structural and agricultural funds

€122.4 billion

Handed to banks and bondholders

€159.6 billion

Handed to Greek government

€100 billion

Private Sector Involvement

“Voluntary” write-off of Greek government debt held by private investors

Proportion spent to facilitate PSI debt write-off

€86 billion

€14 billion

Value of write-off to Greek government