

World's busiest oil-shipping route

Tankers using the Strait of Hormuz carried 17 million barrels of crude oil – a fifth of the world's oil trade – in 2011. At its narrowest point, the Strait is just 34km wide, but the shipping lanes are much narrower

