

Syrian security chief dies as fighting rages on

A fourth member of President Bashar Al Assad's inner circle has died of wounds sustained in a bomb attack on Wednesday. His death comes as government forces fight to recapture parts of Damascus from the rebels, who have managed to seize control of several borders posts

