

Deadly floods devastate northeast India

Relentless rain in northeast India has caused floods and landslides, killed at least 33 people and displaced more than a million in the past week

Sikkim

Landslides kill at least 21 people

Arunachal Pradesh

Four people killed in mudslides

Assam

Eight people killed and 20 missing.
1,000,000 people displaced and now living in camps or by roadsides (which tend to be raised higher than surrounding land)

In July, floods killed at least 110 and left more than 400,000 people homeless