

China firm sues Obama over wind farms

A Chinese-owned company is suing President Barack Obama after he blocked a wind farm deal on national security grounds. The lawsuit alleges that the U.S. president “acted in an unlawful and unauthorised manner” in stopping the project near a Navy base in Oregon

NWSTF Boardman: U.S. base used to fly unmanned drones and electronic warfare planes on training missions

Restricted airspace: Aircraft fly as low as 200 feet (61m) and at nearly 300mph (500km/h)

Wind farms: Acquired by Chinese-owned Rails Corp. earlier this year. Obama signed order to block deal on Sep 28
