

North Korea rocket test

New satellite imagery appears to show increased activity at a North Korean launch site, suggesting a long-range missile test could take place within weeks

