

Today in History

January 2, 2002

▲ Nuclear rivals Pakistan and India were engaged in their biggest military build-up in 15 years, following a suicide attack on the Indian parliament

1955: President Jose Antonio Remon of Panama was assassinated

2002: Scientists announced that they had cloned pigs with organs lacking the gene causing rejection in man

2011: Thousands of refugees fled the Ivory Coast as rival presidents Laurent Gbagbo and Alassane Ouattara battled

2012: Thousands of opposition supporters in Hungary protested over Prime Minister Viktor Orbán's alleged attempts to undermine democracy