

Two-time Best Actors

If Daniel Day-Lewis wins lead actor for his portrayal of the title role in Steven Spielberg's biopic Lincoln, he will become the first three-time Best Actor winner in Oscar history

Spencer Tracy: Captains Courageous (1938), Boys Town (1939)

Gary Cooper: Sergeant York (1942), High Noon (1953)

Marlon Brando: On the Waterfront (1955), The Godfather (1973)

Jack Nicholson: One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (1976), As Good as It Gets (1998)

Dustin Hoffman: Kramer vs. Kramer (1980), Rain Man (1989)

Daniel Day-Lewis: My Left Foot (1990), There Will Be Blood (2008)

Tom Hanks: Philadelphia (1994), Forrest Gump (1995)

Sean Penn: Mystic River (2004), Milk (2009)