

Spotlight on Detroit

2013 will be the year of the truck and the luxury car, according to forecasts at Detroit – America's most influential auto show

▶ Ford F-150 Atlas: Concept truck uses start-stop technology to improve fuel economy

▶ Chevrolet Silverado: General Motors hopes revamped pickup will boost global profits

Up to $44,000
(€33,000)

Global sales of cars costing more than $130,000 (€100,000) are forecast to beat 2007 pre-recession peak this year

▶ Porsche 918 Spyder: Hybrid supercar – with mid-mounted V-8 and two electric motors – has top speed of 323km/h and fuel economy of 2.5 litres per 100km. Automaker's most expensive model is aimed at Chinese market

Up to
$2.2 million
(€1.65m)

▶ Mercedes SCG AMG Black Series: Re-born gullwing coupe accelerates from 0-100km/h in 3.6 seconds and has top speed of 315km/h

$199,500
(€150,000)

▶ Chevrolet Corvette: First Corvette to carry Stingray name since 1970s

From
$50,000
(€37,600)

From $315,000
(€236,100)

▶ Ferrari 458 Spider: Top speed of 320km/h, 0-100km/h in 3.3 secs

▶ Bentley Continental GTV8: Twin-turbo 6.0-litre W12 engine. Top speed of 325km/h, 0-100km/h in 4.1 secs

From
$174,000
(€130,350)

