

Remains of Richard III confirmed

Archaeologists searching for the resting place of Richard III have confirmed that a skeleton unearthed last year is that of the former English monarch

Present day: Shops and businesses

Sep 12, 2012: Archaeologists announce discovery of battle-damaged skeleton suspected to be body of Richard III

 Parking lots

Medieval era: Church of the Grey Friars

1485: After Battle of Bosworth Field, victorious Henry Tudor displays Richard III's body for two days before burying it in unmarked grave in Church of the Grey Friars

1538: Church demolished following its dissolution by Henry VIII, and its whereabouts lost until recently