

Today in History

May 28, 2004

▲ The last span of the Millau viaduct in France, the world's highest road bridge, was completed. It soars 270m above the River Tarn

1991: Rebels entered the Ethiopian capital, Addis Ababa, ending the 17-year rule of the Marxist government

1998: Pictures from the Hubble Space Telescope revealed a planet outside our own solar system

2000: Alberto Fujimori was reelected president of Peru amid claims that the voting had been rigged

2008: A 380m-year-old fossil fish provided the oldest-known example of a mother giving birth to live young