

Trust in EU at record low

New data shows that public trust in the European Union has fallen to record low levels within the bloc's six biggest member states, amid rising unemployment, debt crises and spending cuts

Percentage of people who said they tended not to trust EU

