

Mars rover finds rich source of clay

NASA's ageing Opportunity rover has discovered what scientists believe to be rock laden with clay minerals – an indication that it was once in prolonged contact with drinkable water

